CAMPUS UPDATES AND OPPORTUNITIES

Center for Social Concerns

Spring Community-Engaged Course Guide

Each semester the Center for Social Concerns publishes an online guide of community-engaged courses. Faculty should look for an email coming soon from Connie Mick, Ph.D., calling on Notre Dame faculty to identify Spring 2022 courses that include community-engaged research, community-engaged learning, and/or experiential learning. For more information about the community-engaged course guide, visit our webpage. Learn more

Social Concerns Fair: January 2022

Community partners will soon be invited to reserve a table for the annual Social Concerns Fair at Notre Dame. Faculty and students can meet the more than 70 community partners at the event looking for course, research, and volunteer connections. More information coming next month. Check out our website for information about previous fairs. Learn more

New Opportunity Database: The Volunteer Board

Are you looking for ways to connect with local community organizations? Interested individuals can use our new “Local Volunteer Opportunities” page to find ways to work in-person or remotely with community members. Browse the Local Volunteer Opportunities Database to learn more, including contact information for each organization. Browse opportunities

Institute for Latino Studies: Cross Cultural Leadership Program

Deadline: February 2022

CCLP is an extraordinary opportunity for you to immerse yourself in a lively Latinx community next summer! Open to all First Years, Sophomores, and Juniors in all programs and majors, the program is offered at no cost to ND students. CCLP engages students in real-world applications of their academic studies through summer service-learning in Chicago, Los Angeles, and Washington, D.C. Students in this three-credit course will be immersed, by volunteering full-time in a community-based organization and/or national agency that addresses U.S. Latino community issues. For additional information visit the ILS website, or contact ILS Associate Director Paloma Garcia-Lopez at sgarcial@nd.edu.

Kellogg Institute For International Studies 2022 Human Development Conference

Call for Mixed Media

The 14th Annual HDC will be held on February 25-26, 2022 at the University of Notre Dame. The conference provides a platform for undergraduate students to display their research and creative work and to engage with other students, faculty, and professionals as they explore themes of human development. We welcome media including photos, videos, art, posters, and more. Please note: The conference is open to students able to present their work both in-person and virtually. To apply, click here and submit your media by Friday, January 14th, 2022, at 11:59 PM. Please email hdc@nd.edu for additional information, questions, or concerns. # NATIONAL UPDATES AND OPPORTUNITIES

Biden administration wants to re-create DACA through new federal rule. What does that mean?

The embattled Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program to shield thousands of “Dreamers” from deportation is entering an important new chapter, and you can help write it.

Launched by a memorandum from the Department of Homeland Security in 2012, the program suspended deportations and provided work permits for more than 825,000 immigrants who’d come to the United States as children and were living in the country without legal permission. These individuals weren’t eligible to become citizens or legal residents and faced a constant threat of deportation, even as they typically had little or no memory of the country of their birth. ## Define American Immigrant Creative Fellowship

About the Fellowship, Click here to learn more

The world is moved by stories and storytellers. Culture is changed by compelling narratives.

This fellowship supports immigrant creatives working in narrative art forms as they build their professional practice and network. Recognizing the unique hurdles that immigrant creatives in these fields may face, the six fellows selected for the Define American Creative Fellowship will participate in workshops and conversations around furthering their network and impact, be connected with additional resources, and supported in their community engagement efforts.

The Define American Creative Fellowship is open to creatives in narrative-oriented art forms (writing, filmmaking, visual storytelling, theater, illustration, spoken word, digital journalism, etc.) with at least some experience (professional or amateur) in their chosen medium. This program is uniquely suited to supporting artists who have a deep commitment to their local communities and further developing their creative practice as they shape narratives of American identity.

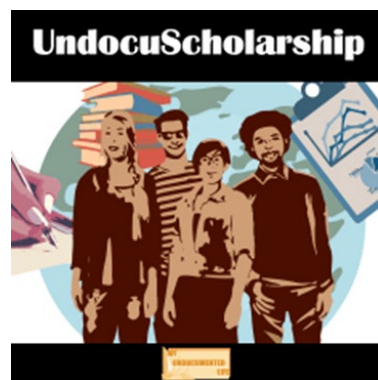

Applications are now closed for the 2021 fellowship. We hope to open applications for the next cohort in January 2022.

For further information or questions, please contact the Creative Programs Manager Bethany Wearden (bethany@defineamerican.com).

My Undocumented Life New Series

UndocuScholarship: Research by Formerly and Currently Undocumented Scholars

By LUCY, CAROLINA, and RACHEL

At My Undocumented Life Blog, we are excited to announce a new series called UndocuScholarship: Research by Formerly and Currently Undocumented Scholars. With support from The UndocuScholars Project at the Institute for Immigration, Globalization, and Education at UCLA, we commissioned writers to contribute blog posts with helpful advice and information about conducting immigration-related research as formerly or currently undocumented scholars.
